FRIENDS OF THE

PETRIE MUSEUM

MEMBERSHIP FORM 2026/2027

The large collection of ancient Egyptian antiquities in the Petrie Museum is derived chiefly from the excavations of W.M. Flinders Petrie, his colleagues, and successors. Its strength lies in the wealth of archaeological material exhibited in its excavated context to illustrate the development of Egyptian culture, technology, and daily life. Together with the type-collections it forms the finest teaching and research collection of its kind in any University, and one of the finest Egyptology collections in the world, recognised as being of international importance.

Renew your membership today to help further the work on the archaeological heritage of Egypt and the Sudan. The Friends of the Petrie Museum play a large role in raising funds towards the conservation, publication, and display of this outstanding collection. Your support will be an extremely valuable contribution which will enable the objects to be cared for, and learnt from, well into the future.
